

Increase Vehicle Efficiency through Tire Inflation

Poor tire inflation is common, and significantly impacts vehicle fuel economy. While onboard sensors in new vehicles will yield improvements over time, the problem persists for the existing vehicle fleet. This supplemental strategy would require businesses that service vehicles to check and properly inflate tires each time a vehicle is serviced.

This policy is still in the “idea” stage. Action has not been taken on this potential supplemental policy.